The Honolulu Engineering Association held a meeting Monday night. There were two papers, the first being on "Fuel Oil," by C. C. Perkins, and the second on "Molecular Structure of Fuel Oil," by A. W. Keech. Mr. Keech's conclusion was that fuel oil is non-explosive just so long as it is not allowed to become mixed with air. There was a general discussion along the lines laid down by this paper.

Among the guests at the Moana hotel are Mr. and Mrs. Grinbaum, of San Francisco, who are enjoying their honeymoon in Hawaii. Mr. Grinbaum is a son of the president of the London, Paris & American Bank, while Mrs. Grinbaum's father, Herman Heinemann, is the president of the American Tobacco Trust.

The young people were married at Del Monte about three weeks ago. Both are prominent in San Francisco society circles.

Mr. Grinbaum visited these islands about four years ago, while Mrs. Grinbaum is now enjoying her first acquaintance with the sunny skies of Hawaii. Both unite in singing the praise of this country and avow that on their return to San Francisco they shall recommend Honolulu to all their friends as an ideal spot for a pleasure trip.

On Saturday the Grinbaums will go to Moanalua as guests of S. M. Damon. They will return to San Francisco in the Siberia, May 9.

H. Hackfeld & Co., Ltd., was found guilty by the Federal court jury in all twelve cases of violating the immigration laws. There were two counts in each information, the amount of the charge being that Japanese immigrants were allowed to land from steamships without permission of the authorities.

The defense was that the immigrants were in charge of the United States of Belial on Quarantine island, hence beyond control of the agent of the steamships, when they escaped. As the penalty is $300 on the first count and $1000 on the second in each of the twelve cases, the judgment exclusive of costs against the agent will be $15,600 on the verdict. An appeal has been noted.
